No niche for me in halls of fame, No plaque of bronze reflects my name No sculptor shall my likeness hew That ages hence may passing view No chronicler shall dip his pen And trace my life for other men; My name, I know will not rise high-Unknown I've lived, Unknown I'll die; And yet, if I my purpose fill, I'll covet not the famed man's thrill-If I can aid the needy's cause, Then let their joy be my applause— If I can make the sad content, Their smiles shall be my monument-If I can help the blind to see, The lame to walk, this world to be A better place—if I can share My neighbor's burden, grief, or care Or lessen worry, greed, or hate— I'll count myself among the great. As we watched the beautiful new Black Hawk College campus develop from a blueprint into actual modern structures that now appear on John Deere Road, we realized that we too had developed step by step this past year.

With growing expectations we have viewed the growth of our new campus and anticipated its completion. Just as the architects meticulously engineered a blueprint for our new campus, our outstanding faculty engineered a blueprint for developing us into well-rounded, intelligent adults. Whether it be in learning, organizing, appreciating growing into maturity and gaining experience under the helmsman ship of Dr. Alban E. Reid and his crew of dedicated teachers, we strive towards the future to fulfill our individual search for knowledge.

Having this thought in mind, the following pages of this book reflects the final sunset on our old campus and the rising dawn of a new era for Black Hawk College ...

The student artist at Black Hawk College begin with art as a gradual process, whether it is the new courses of ceramics, sculpture or beginning painting. The student of art at B.H.C. will find other areas of interest like, drawing theory which gives the student a sound foundation to go forward into the realm of life drawing. Theory and life drawing are requirements for art majors.

In the past year the students and faculty have participated in a number of workshops both at the college and in the community. The Art Department was a co-sponsor with an artist from Japan, for a pottery workshop in November of last year.

Marycrest College was host to Black Hawk art students during January of this year, exhibiting many of our students works.

The Art Department also participated in the annual Fine Arts Weekend at Western Illinois University.

There were many other activities for the creative students to participate in, for instance: On May 10, 1969, Black Hawk College exhibited to the community the works completed by students, in art, drawing, sculpture and ceramics at B.H.C's annual open house event.

In the Spring Augustana College and Black Hawk College conducted a joint workshop in "Raku" pottery at Black Hawk.

The Art Department at B.H.C. is where a student learns the art of Artistic Interpretation and Explanation of this world and its associations.

The 1968-69 season of the Braves completed the season with a 11-14 record.

Mike Ryan lead the Squad with 17.6 points per game and an average of 13.5 rebounds per game. He was followed by Tony Kuberski with 13.5 points, per game. Five team members averaged in double figures for the season.

It is expected that five lettermen will return for the 69-70 season. John Fields, Tony Kuberski, Denny Countryman, Wes Fry and Larry Bond will form the nucleus for the team next season.

James Knox was elected Captain, Mike Ryan became the most valuable player, Wes Fry the most improved and Mike Kuberski the Freethrow Champion with a .762 shooting percentage.

Offensive average 81.9 Defensive average 81.2

The 1968-69 Black Hawk College golf team finished the season with a record of 6-12. Sophomore Dave Gustafson registered the low 18 hole score of the year with a 71. The Braves were led by Dave Lofgren who averaged 78.2 strokes per round. Sophomore Gary Martin registered 82.1 strokes per round and two freshmen, Bill Hagel from Prophetstown, Illinois, and Bob Thornton rounded out the five man team.

After finishing tenth at the Conference Championship in Chicago, the team rebounded and tied for fourth place in the Region IV Tournament held at Bloomington, Illinois, by posting a score of 314, their lowest of the season.

Dave Lofrgren tied with two other individuals for a fifth position in the top ten golfers ranking.

Black Hawk College wrestling team under the expert coaching of Denton Smith had a triumphant season this year.

I Am Proud

I am black of skin among white,

And I am proud,

Proud of race and proud of skin.

I am broken and poor,

Dressed in rags from white man's back,

But do not think I am ashamed.

Spears could not contend against guns and we were mastered,

But there are things they could not plunder and destroy.

We were conquered but never subservient,

We were compelled but never servile.

Do not think I cringe as white men cringe to whites.

I am proud,

Though humble and poor and without a home. . .

So was Christ.

Aboriginal Charter of Rights

We want Hope, not racialism,

Brotherhood, not ostracism,

Black advance in white ascendance:

Make us equal, not dependents.

We need help, not exploitation,

We want freedom, not frustration;

Not control, but self reliance,

Independence, not compliance,

Not rebuff, but education,

Self respect, not resignation.

Free us from a mean subjection,

From a bureaucrat protection.

Let's forget the old time slavers:

Give us fellowship, not favors;

Encouragement, not prohibition,

Homes, not settlements and missions.

We need love, not over lordship,

Grip of hand, not whip-hand wardship;

Hope that places

White and black on equal basis. .

Banish ban and conquer caste,

Then we'll win our own at last.

THANKS

Some how after putting out a yearbook, you find there are many people who, for no other reason than their generous spirit will contribute time and effort to help you put it out. So we would like to give name to those many people who did help us out in many ways: Rhonda Snelson, who produced the poetry on pages 11, 15,62, 70. Susan Etzel, who generously let us rip apart several of her poems to use on pages 89,144. To the head librarian at Moline High School, Miss Kathlene Curry, who let us use the early editions of the Moline 'M' to find the construction photos used in the 'Sauk'. To Miss Dorothy Martin, who permitted us to tape record one of her Biology lectures for use in our phonograph record. To the Quad City Art Directors Club, for awarding last year' yearbook Best of Editorial Design/ Internal Publication. To Dick Mosher and Joe Cupp at Walsworth Publishing for having enough patience to let us try everything in the book, and some things that weren't in the book on this volume.

BACK WORD

A brief word in passing about the Sauk 69. The year book by any measure is an institution to collect the memorabilia of one school year and put it into some form of a cohesive collection, which later, when returned to will bring floods of memories to the viewer (archivist). Strangely enough the year book has through the years, the actual volume itself, become somewhat of a relic, not able to record properly the activities of a modern era, an era where events happen at a fantastic rate and occur at several levels at the same time. The now old saying 'only change is constant'! is found to be fact and suddenly we find that the usual phrases and ideas, pictorial and written, that where so pithy and up-to-date earlier in the year are now obsolete by the time of the publication of the yearbook.

It has been the desire of this year's staff to create something more provocative than a book of records. This book had the basic premise of reflecting the time in which it was put together, the evocation of not only people, but of an environment, a microcosm. The yearbooks of the 1900's reflected unmistakenly the life and times of that period when all the world was the student's 'oyster'. But now the 'brave new world' is a 'world we never made' and the optimism has turned into a cold pessimism. So the year book can and should try to reflect this change in thought.

In this attempt, the guiding factor has been to picture people (read, student) in the activities that would be memorable to the participants, not put them on display as so many butterfly specimens (Lepidopia) pinned, tagged, identified, and quite lifeless. As many of the College's students don't participate in the usual structured activities it becomes necessary to search out the student in whatever activities he does take part in. In many cases this is just in the class room or in the nebulous marking of time between one class and the next. Since this can be, and is a hit-or-miss proposition, and did leave out some of the students, apologies are in order to those who were unintentionally missed. This method affords the chance to picture a majority of the people in the school, which smacks of a creeping IBMism, but it was our intent to focus on the individual.
